TUESDAY WOMEN ANNOUNCES 2003 EXECUTIVE BOARD

ATLANTA, GA – Tuesday, May 6, 2003– Tuesday Women, a peer global business forum for executive-level women in technology, today announced its 2003 Executive Board. Tuesday Women was founded in November 2002 and launched in January this year. Its executive board consists of a diverse group of 15 women and one man, representing entrepreneurial, government, corporate and service provider entities whose main focus is technology, business and international markets.

“Tuesday Women’s executive board is dedicated to fulfilling the vision of this organization. They represent a hardcore group of passionate supporters and committed advocates of women in technology, both in and outside of Atlanta. I am confident the board will continue to employ their technical expertise, industry relationships and knowledge of international markets to see Tuesday Women deliver its promise and live up to its potential globally,” said Virginia Bradley founder and CEO, Tuesday Women. Bradley also serves as president of GlobalTech Women, a business consulting firm focused on professional development, leadership programs and building strategic alliances.
